Forecast For The United Kingdom
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 1600 on Wednesday 08 Sep 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 1800 and 0600

Headline:
Cloud and showers, some thundery extending slowly to all parts.

This Evening and Tonight:
Rain, some heavy, across the far north and northwest continuing. Elsewhere cloud and occasional rain, some heavy and thundery, over the south and southwest of the UK extending slowly northeast to all parts. Very warm and humid again for many.

Thursday:
A less hot and cloudier day with occasional sunny intervals. Any sunshine is likely to trigger showers, again some heavy and thundery with torrential downpours in places. Warm and humid.

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Initially unsettled but warm with cloud and heavy showers possible. Clearing from the south and west to become mainly fine but still with the odd shower possible.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.